Plans become reality for all-school stadium

Plans for an all-school stadium materialized this year as the Board of Education appropriated adequate sums for major improvements on the football field at William Chrisman High School. New bleachers and a new press box transformed the old field into one which benefited all Independence schools.

The Board was not only responsible for this new facility, but also for the purchase of sites for future schools and for maintenance improvements on the junior high school buildings.

As executive officer of the Board of Education, Dr. Guy Carter saw to the administering of the policies set forth by the Board. He further aided the Board of Education as superintendent of schools.

One of the many complex responsibilities which faced Dr. Carter as superintendent involved the painstaking preparation of the budget for every aspect in the school system. In addition to the issuance of appropriations for the previously mentioned improvements, Dr. Carter's budget included salary raises for all personnel.

Numerous years of experience in the field of education enabled Dr. Carter to maintain his high position as superintendent. He was an elementary teacher, a social studies teacher, coach and high school principal.

Striving to meet the needs of an ever-growing school complex, Dr. Carter compares growth patterns with those of other progressive school districts.

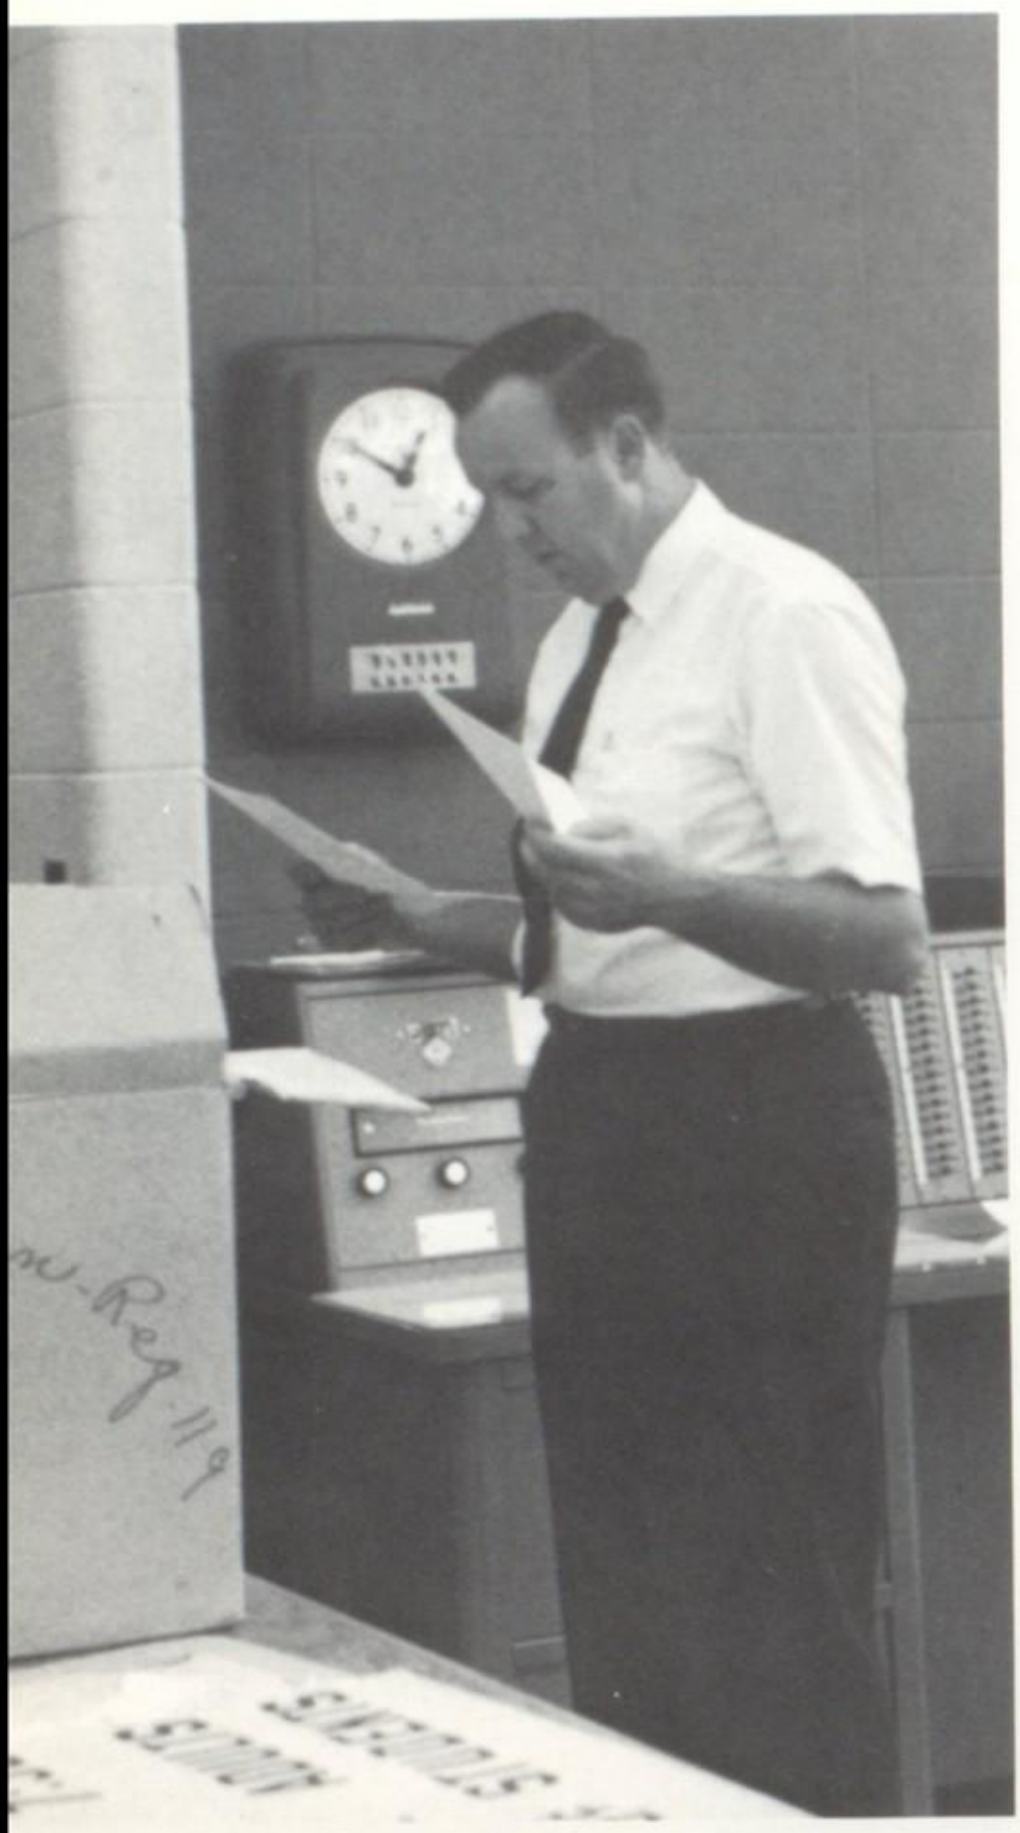
Principals share mutual interests in sports



Going over last-minute changes, Mr. LeRoy Brown prepares for afternoon announcements.

Mr. Leroy Brown, principal, and Mr. Jerry Moore, vice-principal, shared a mutual interest in sports which developed in their high school days. Mr. Brown participated in all sports and activities at his high school in Green Ridge, while Mr. Moore played football and softball on Sunday afternoons in Mountain Grove. Both of Truman's principals played basketball and displayed their athletic skills in intramurals.

When not on the golf course, Mr. Brown devoted much of his time in coordinating all activities and aspects of the student life at Truman.

And when Mr. Moore wasn't playing basketball in his church league, he supervised the disciplinary measures at Truman. He was also responsible for scheduling, class changes, attendance and the audio visual schedules.

Mr. Brown received his B.S. in Education at Central Missouri State College and his M.A. at the University of Kansas City. Mr. Moore earned his B.S. in mathematics from Southwest Missouri State College and his M.S. in Secondary School Administration at the University of Missouri, Columbia.

PTA, Booster Club support Trumanites

The Truman Parent-Teacher Association brought together teachers and parents to discuss and sponsor student activities. The PTA sponsored an open house, the Football Homecoming, a chili supper, the school mixers, the Senior Banquet and the Senior Prom.

This year the officers were Mrs. Elma Dean Stark, president; Mrs. Phil Weeks, vice president; Mrs. Fred Smith, secretary; Mrs. Francis Kassen, treasurer; and Mrs. C. E. Sharp, historian.

Th Booster Club also strived to keep parents interested in active school support. The Booster Club provided programs at the football games, sold Patriot license plates, sponsored a raffle, the All-Sports Banquet, and the Meet-the-Squad-Nights. They planned a street dance, carnival and bake sale in September.

The 1968 Booster Club officers were Mr. Russell Wiley, president; Mr. Howard Nichols, first vice president; Mr. Marvin Croft, second vice-president; Mrs. Virginia Basler, secretary; and Mrs. Phillis Sturges, treasurer.

With a greeting to all parents, Mrs. Elma Dean Stark opens the P.T.A. Back-To-School-Night.

65 teachers educate Truman students

They frowned at unruly behavior:
They were amused at sudden outbursts of intelligence from generally quiet students.
They were sad because of Truman defeats:
They laughed loudest when a joke was told.
They sympathized with upset students;
They were relieved at the arrival of each day's end.
"They" were the teaching army that fought the never-ending battle to educate the Trumanites.

Counselors employ new procedures this year

Mrs. Shirley Freeman

Mr. Bill Moyer

Truman's counseling department underwent a facelifting to provide additional services to keep pace with the changing students.

A new counselor, Mrs. Shirley Freeman, joined the staff and was assigned the task of counseling all Truman students whose last name begins with the letters L through Z.

Retaining the position he has held since Truman was built, Mr. Bill Moyer aided students with last names beginning with A through K.

Both counselors endeavored to contact everyone in the student body at intervals throughout the school year. Special attention was given to members of this year's graduating class.

Newly designed counseling procedures often compel Mrs. Freeman and Mr. Moyer, Truman counselors, to seek one another's assistance.

Two divisions, personnel and instruction, combine for the first time this year under the direction of deputy superintendent, Mr. Emory Parks.

Top administrators assume new titles

Assistant superintendent of business services, a title established this year by the Board of Education, Mr. Paul Landers directs the business service division.

Because of the significant roles which Mr. Emory Parks and Mr. Paul Landers play in the administration of the Independence schools, they were assigned newly originated titles this year.

In addition to receiving the title of deputy superintendent, Mr. Parks assumed the responsibilities of director of personnel and instruction, two positions which were combined for the first time this year.

The division of business services remained the responsibility of Mr. Landers this year, and he received the new title of assistant superintendent of business services.

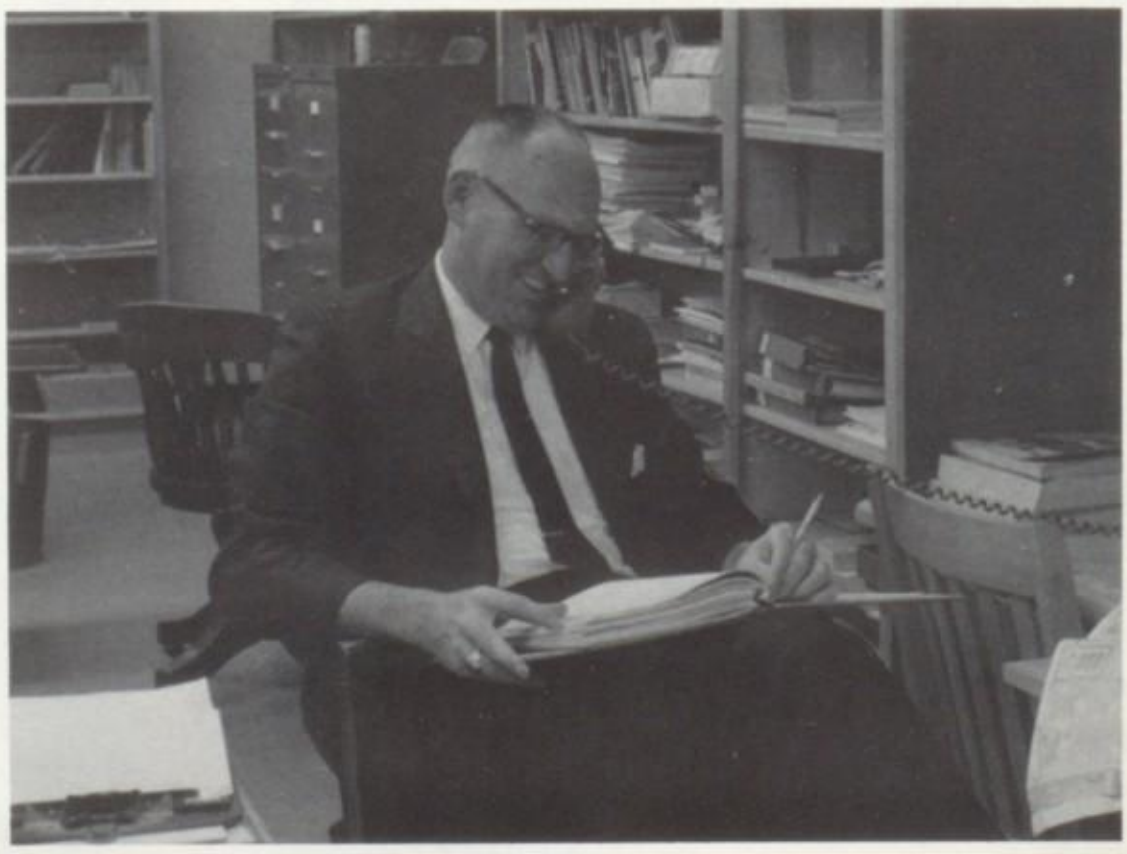
Mr. Park's accomplishments involved improvements in the areas of instruction, introduction of German II, reorganization of the business department and redesigning of the math department.

Mr. Landers introduced a new data processing system for the personnel records, purchased supplies and equipment and saw to the payment of bills.

Mr. Merle Shafer and Mr. Kenneth Cline, visiting teachers.

Mr. Keith Bench, director of Federal Funds and special programs.

Mrs. Martha Jane Sears, school nurse.



Coach Norman James, director of physical education.

Trumanites benefit from numerous individuals

The efficient operation of Truman High School involved the combined efforts of many persons.

Director of buildings and grounds, Mr. Don Allee's duty encompassed the supervision of school property and custodians.

Mr. Keith Bench was responsible for the coordination of federal funds and special programs.

As director of music, Mr. M.O. Johnson took care of all music activities for the secondary schools.

Coach Norman James, director of sports, scheduled all games for secondary athletic programs.

Visiting teachers, Mr. Kenneth Cline and Mr. Merle Shafer, checked attendance problems throughout the school year.

Mrs. Martha Jane Sears contributed to school operations as a result of her duties as school nurse and Mrs. Sadie Kerrick as food service director.

Mrs. Sadie Kerrick, food service director.

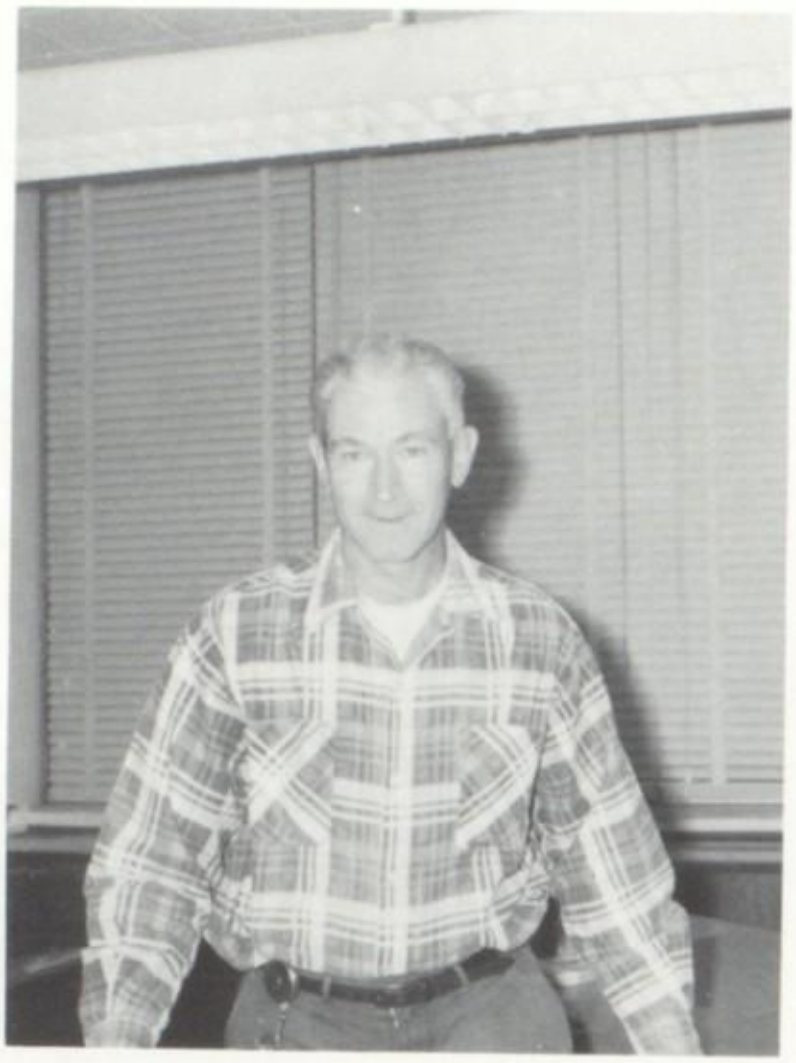
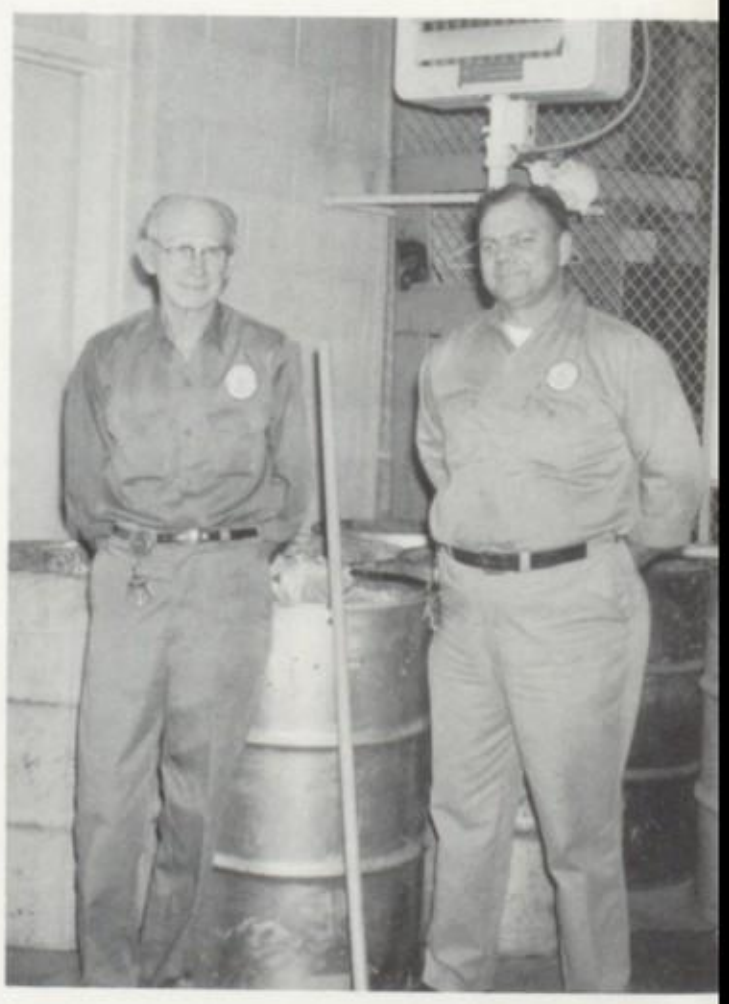
Routine surrounds daily custodial duties



Before starting daily cleaning, Mr. Joe Peel checks pencil sharpeners and empties wastebaskets.

Hours of work are in store for Mrs. Elta Pursley, matron, as she prepares to clean the girl's locker room after a full day of physical education classes.



Assuring cleanliness in the cafeteria are Ernest Dole and Lee Austin.

Alignment of chairs in classrooms follows a thorough floor sweeping by Wayne Fleming.

Head custodian, Tom Gillispie, pauses momentarily to gaze out the windows.

At the end of their workshift, Grover Holliger and Cecil Lyle take a short rest.

Opening jammed lockers is one of the many duties of William Parks.

Cleaning the lobby, Bacil Thomas prepares the school for another day at Truman.

Cafeteria workers

Supervisor of Truman's cafeteria, Mrs. Verna Graham, orders necessary food throughout the school year.

Cashiers Jo Peterson, Ruth Van Fleet, Bunny Christensen and Dolores Ayers total the cash Trumanites spend on lunches.

Serving plate lunches is the job of servers Vilma Hedges, Viola Krause, Nina Hawes, Norma Gleason, Ann Hale and Edith Erwin.

cook, serve, wash for four lunch periods

Routine jobs of cafeteria workers range from cutting pies for serving to cooking the main dish.

Cooks Shirley Leaf, Reta Woodward, Agnes Mieweg, Lucille King, Ollie McLees and Eileen Hayes prepare 1400 meals every day.

These six workers, Freda Tippin, Dorothy Athon, Teresa Ragusa, Marise Sallee, Helen Aneonio and Lois Edmundson wash dishes during each lunch period.

Academics

English students strive for creative expression

Juniors Kathy Hanson, ZoAnn McConchie and Mark Proutt prepare to present a class discussion to their English III class.

Quiet study surrounds Mr. Anderson's English IV class. Students are assigned to write on the seven thought-provoking topics behind him on the black board.

by discussion, study

Several steps were used this year to attain the goal of creative expression.

Grammar was studied in sophomore through senior classes. Gerunds, participles, infinitives, nouns, adjective and adverb clauses, parts of speech and predicate nominatives remind students of the hours spent on exercises this year.

Next came the study of novels. Different styles of various authors were examined by class discussion in all literary genre.

Elements of creative writing such as transitional phrases, parts of a composition, introductions and conclusions were introduced in sophomore English and reviewed in English III and IV.

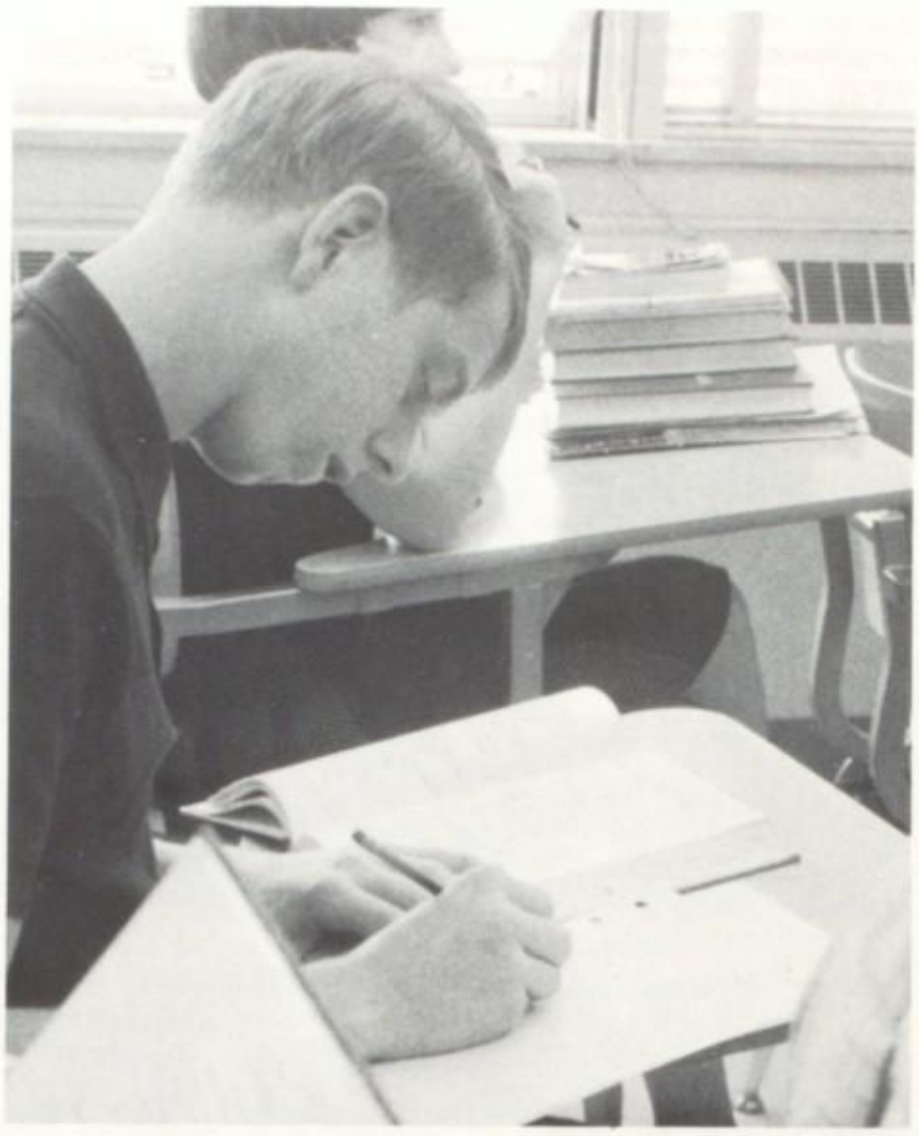
Five instructors acquaint Truman students

Members of the second hour French class transfer their translations to the blackboard.



Checking his work, Dennis Moore completes his German assignment.

RIGHT—Spanish III student Debbie Parker writes an exercise on the board.

with Latin, German, French, Spanish

With a re-adjustment in staff, five teachers taught four foreign languages at Truman this year.

For two hours a day, Mrs. Ruth Brown taught Latin. Her Latin I and II classes studied verb construction, sentence order and Roman history. A special feature this year was "Latin in the News". Students contributed news clippings with words stemming from Latin.

German students studied under Mrs. Heidemarie McGuinness, a native of "Deutchland." Posters and displays provided educational exhibitions for her room.

Mrs. Renee Goodijn, a new teacher this year, took over five hours of French. Mrs. Goodijn attempted to give her French classes all rudiments necessary to go on to the next course. The remaining language, Spanish, had such a large enrollment that it required two teachers. Miss Janette McDowell, a new addition to the department, taught Spanish for two hours.

In contrast, Mrs. Mary Clements had taught Spanish at Truman for four years. Dialogue study dominated her Spanish I classes. Second-year classes reviewed the previous year with the use of tapes. Mrs. Clements introduced third-year classes to a study of the country's geography and history.

German teacher Mrs. McGinness explains a point of grammar on the board behind her.

Latin students take notes on Roman history as Mrs. Ruth Brown lectures.

'Heritage' staff focuses on many faces

Looking over pictures, Don Cain, editor, decides which one to use in the yearbook.

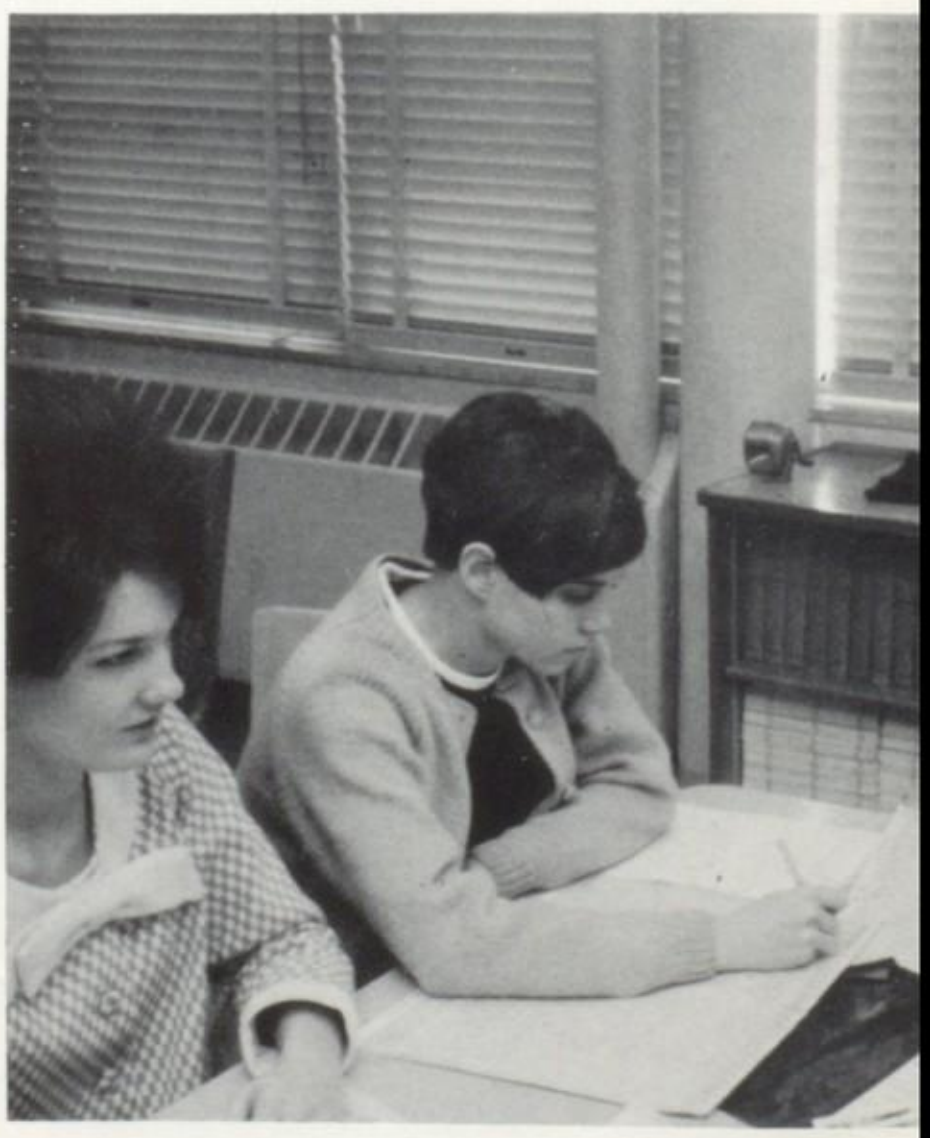
Producing Truman's yearbook, the Heritage, was the main objective and responsibility of this year's Publications II class. Named at a banquet last spring to their various positions on the staff, members of the class started planning cover, theme and picture ideas soon after.

Maintaining and keeping within the budget allowed the yearbook staff was among the many problems faced by the staff members. A percentage of money from class pictures and class rings went to the publications department.

A new staff arrangement was put to use this year by adviser, Mr. Ron Clemons.Instead of the usual assistant editor, there were four associate editors, each in charge of a different section.

Publications I students learn the basis and proper procedures for writing copy, captions, headlines and drawing layouts.

The Christmas Formal, an annual dance where the Heritage Queen was crowned, was sponsored by both publications classes.



Working on their various jobs, Judi McFadden, photography editor, goes over pictures while Margaret DeCamp, layout editor, and Denise Clinton, copy editor, draw layouts and correct copy.

of Truman

Putting junior class pictures in alphabetical order, typists Renae King, Nancy Cascairo and Linda Foster use the office files.

Proofreading some copy submitted by typist Sheila Humphrey, Don stresses accuracy.

Going over their different sections, associate editors Nick Binninger, Nancy Livingston, Kay Constance and Phil Basler work toward a deadline.

Journalism II students

Managing editor Bob Cole aims the staff for an All-American rating, the highest award available for high school journalists. Last year's staff attained this honor.

All receipts and advertising bills are handled by Annette Shirky. Circulation editor Chris McClain sends copies of the newspaper to area high schools and local administrators. All photography is the responsibility of Shari Myers.

To insure uniform copy, Kathy Cline, copy editor proofreads an article by Pat Heckmann, editorial editor.

Photographer Pat Fortner provides pictures for the "Spirit."

combine efforts to produce 'Spirit of '68'

As feature editor, Wendy Hodges must okay all feature stories as well as write her own column, "Hodge Podge." News stories that appear throughout the paper are scrutinized by Donna Lamble, news editor, before they go to the printers'.

Writing a column requires careful originality of Carol Warren who created "Take it or leave it. . ."

Speech, Dramatics evoke self-expression from

One phase of the speech course involves serving as a chairman.

Presenting a humorous skit, Charles Novak and Sherry Norman perform in dramatics.

Portraying an ingenue, Donna Miller prepares for the One Acts.

participating students

Learning to express oneself claimed the main objective of both dramatics and speech classes. Special projects enabled students to develop this skill.

Dramatics presented the One-Acts November 16 and 17, and when they were not working on the plays, they learned correct acting procedures.

Speech classes spent time learning good organization before starting their required speeches. Some of these students stayed after school and helped in timing the debate tournaments in order to gain debating knowledge.

Speech I students, such as Annette Patterson, learn confidence speaking before an audience.

Discussing a stage move with Carol, Hollaman, Mrs. Schell gives advice.

Tournaments reveal hours of research

Through hours of research, planning and discussion, debaters prepared for tournaments. Debate coach, Mr. Lawrence Whisler, stressed organization as the key to a winning case.

First-year debaters began the course with discussions held at Fort Osage High School. Their study of the topic, "Combating Crime in the United Sates" deepened as teammates were chosen and cases constructed. Practice debates to develop versatile negative and affirmative cases were held with teammates during class and with other schools in the afternoon.

Advanced debate classes applied the logic gained from the previous year to contrast convincing cases. Debate tournaments attempted to single out the best teams by a process of elimination. Both novice and advanced debaters entered contests in these categories: extemporaneous speaking, original oratory, impromptu speaking, humorous and dramatic interpretation and radio speaking.

Introduction speeches provide novice debaters the opportunity to become acquainted with an audience.

Debaters use their own transportation.

Practice debates sharpen the affirmative plan of Mike Whitehead and Charles Conrad.

Novice debaters Pam Gordon, Carol Sperry, Chris Westergard and Mike Pement discuss new negative attacks.

Art revolves around creativity through

Molding with clay is one of the more popular activities in art.

Learning to express creativity and imagination through various aspects of art was the main objective of Truman's art department.

Art I students began the year by studying the basics. They spent the first quarter drawing sketches, color wheels and abstractions.

Art II spent the first part of the school year drawing realistic figures from abstractions. Working with wood carving and paper plate lithography kept Mr. Braley's Art III students busy.

Art IV, the most progressive class, spent the entire year studying sculpture in depth. Besides making a sculpture, the students were required to make an intensive notebook on sculpturing. Art IV students were also required to keep a file of various pictures and examples of sculptors.

Fulfilling an art assignment, Debbie Brown finds the perspective of her subject.

thoughts, expressions, emotions

Concerts spotlight orchestral talent

Numerous concerts dominated the activities of Truman High School's orchestra under the direction of Mr. Donald Welborn, this year.

The activities commenced in the early fall when Truman participated in a dual concert with Southwest High School. On January 24, Truman's orchestra attended the orchestra clinic at Southeast High School.

Competition with two other schools, Oak Park and North Kansas City, provided Truman's orchestra further opportunity to display its talent. Arbiters based their judgements on individual sight reading plus group ability to play for 20-minute durations.

Valuable practice derived from these concerts prepared the orchestra for entering stiff competition at the district and state music festivals held annually in Warrensburg and Colombia

The major activity of Truman's orchestra are concerts. Renee Cox and Vickie Phillips play string base at a concert.

Obligatory practice generates band

Performances at games, concerts and other school events required hours of practice for members of the varsity band.

Activities started with the first home football game and the band performed at all home games thereafter. During the fall, much of the class time was spent practicing formations out-of-doors. Also at this time several students, mainly brass, started practicing for pep band appearances. Lead by Doug Phillips the pep band played at the pep rally and bonfire, pep assemblies and home basketball games.

December 19 marked the date of the first band concert. Two other concerts were held during the winter and spring. Members of band occupied much of their time in the spring preparing solos, duets and ensemble numbers for Warrensburg and Columbia music contests in April.

Truman vocalists sing for perfection

Concerts, school assemblies, Pat Review and school operettas provided several outlets for Truman's a cappella to display its vocal talent.

The main event was the Suburban Conference Choral Clinic held at Truman in February. It enabled choirs to listen to music from other schools. Clinic in the afternoon and concert in the evening provided these choirs an opportunity to sing together. It also gave these vocalists a chance to work with a college director, Dr. Conan Castle, from Central Missouri State College in Warrensburg. Schools attending were Truman, Oak Park, Blue Springs and Ruskin. Truman's a cappella attended the district music contest at Warrensburg in the spring.

A cappella officers were Doug Phillips, president; Steve Osiek, vice president; Kathy Horne, Shiela Schauer, secretary-treasurer; Kathy Mallett, accompanist. In charge of pitch pipes were Nancy Meserve and Siebert Quick. The choir was under the direction of Mr. Elwood Brown.

Choir girls delve into music origin

During the classroom period, Girl's Glee Club and Girl's Choir learned the techniques and the finer points of singing. They also studied how music was started in the different countries and the various composers and their particular styles.

Throughout the year these girls sang at various high school concerts, at the Thanksgiving, Christmas and the Easter Assemblies, and also at the Pat Revue this spring.

Select choirs sing during assemblies

Sixteen selected students performed for Truman's student body throughout the school year as well as organizational functions. Sponsor, Mr. Elwood Brown, selected this choice group known as Madrigals for their worthiness and capability of representing THS.

Madrigal Choir practiced every Tuesday night and performed in Truman's assemblies with the assistance of Chamber Choir, also directed by Mr. Brown. Chamber Choir, prepared to sing any type of music, performed when a smaller group than A Cappella was needed.

P.E. classes strive for better agility

Physical proficiency was taught through a more strenuous program in this year's physical education classes. Both girls and boys P.E. classes strived to develop better coordination along with football, basketball, baseball and volleyball.

Again this year, improvements were made in both facilities and activities. Installed, as an addition to the girls exercise room, were chinning bars and an overhead ladder.

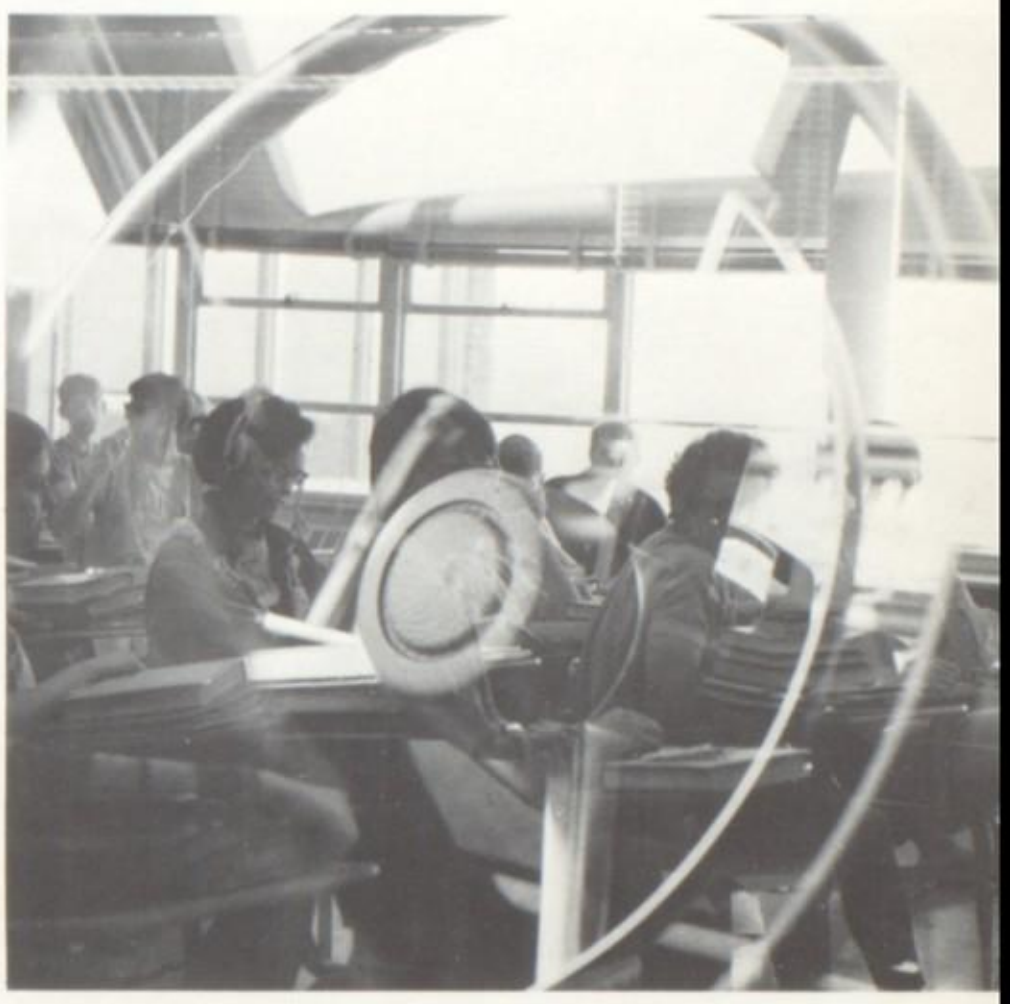
Relays with a volleyball enhance agility and mobility.

Students learn driving skills behind wheel

Developing safe drivers was the aim of Truman's driver education program. The semester course started in the classroom where students learned the various rules and regulations of driving, along with basics concerning the automotive machinery itself.

Driving 1968 Plymouth Satelites, the students practiced a variety of practical skills. Changing a tire, parking and learning to drive in city traffic and on the freeway were a few of the required tasks. Weekly tests were given and films and filmstrips were frequently shown to increase the knowledge of the learning drivers to help prepare them for everyday driving.

The value of a driver's training course has been reflected in the discounts now being offered by many insurance companies.



Drivers education course combines classroom learning and behind the wheel experience.

During the semester, students spend six hours actually driving.

Business department offers training

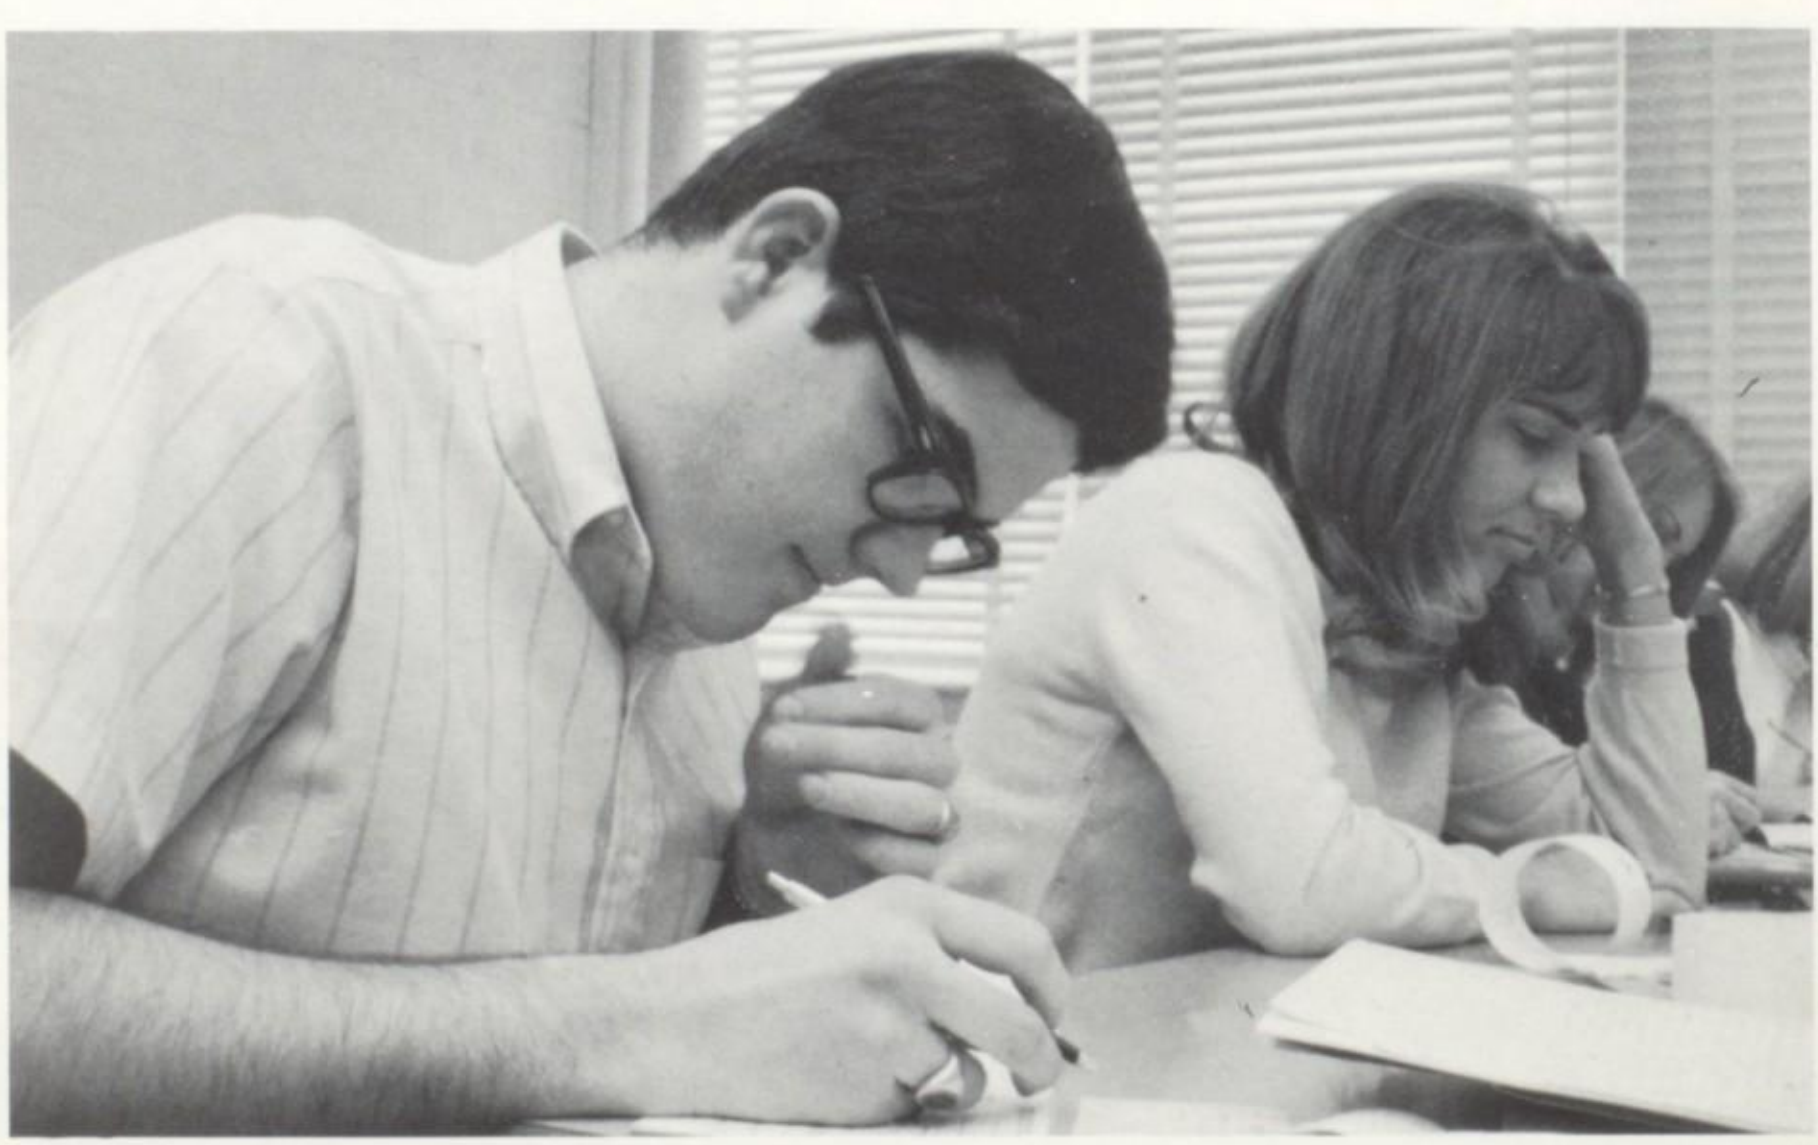
Tabulation is a major part of Pam Leaf's secretarial practice assignments.

Truman High School's business department offered students practical training in the business world. The Cooperative Occupation Education and Secretarial Office Occupations programs made it possible for seniors to participate in actual on-the-job training.

Students involved in COE were required to spend one hour a day in the classroom learning the fundamentals of a business career. SOO students practiced secretarial and clerical skills in the classroom two hours a day.

Commercial business classes were provided for all interested students. Classes of typing, bookkeeping, and shorthand gave students a variation in subject choice.



Bookkeeping students gain business experience by accurate records.

Adding machines help business students calculate large numbers.

part of Truman

Developing practical skills constituted the major objectives of both the Home Economics department and the Drumm Farm Institute.

Daily chores at Drumm Farm consisted of cleaning the grounds plus grooming and feeding livestock. Future Farmers of America offered the boys further opportunity for developing these skills, while 4-H concentrated on dexterious skills.

The home Economics classes at Truman included training in essential fields of cooking, child care and interior design. The girls learned to economize on the meals they cooked while retaining the nourishment needed. They also studied efficient methods in bathing, diapering and dressing an infant through practice with dolls.

Trainees employ manual techniques

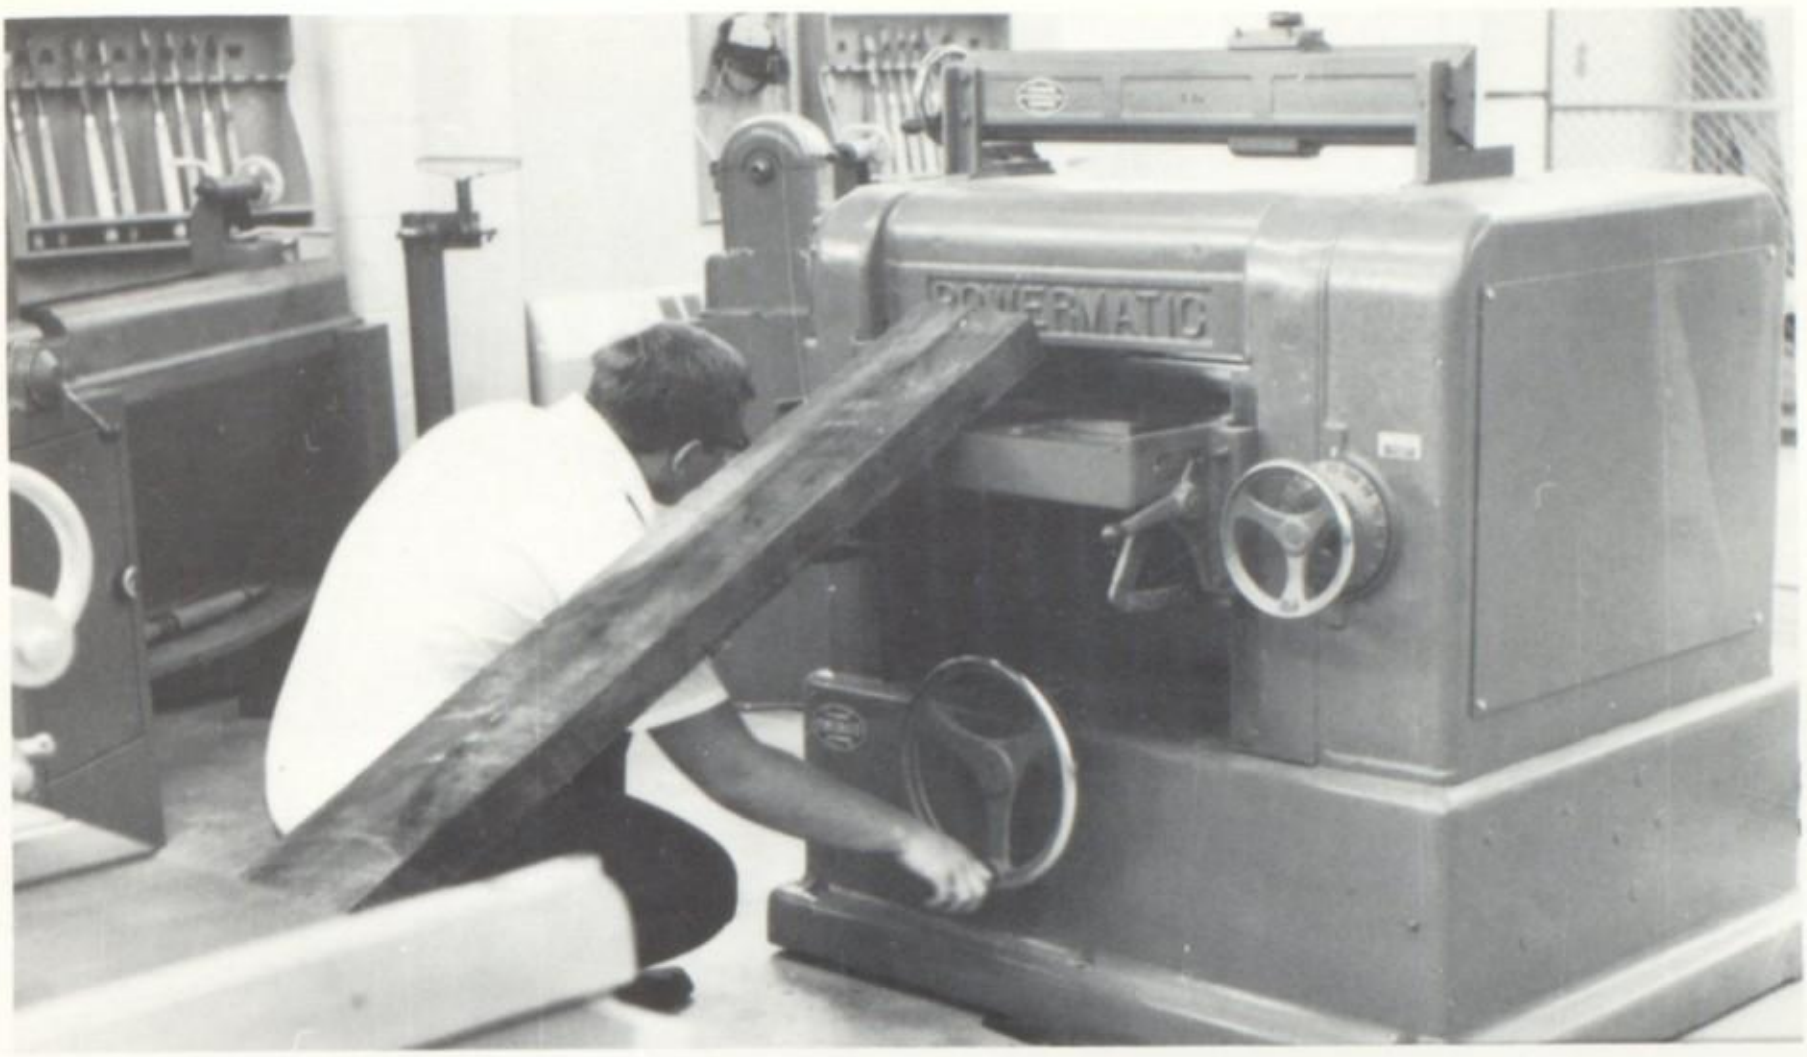
Broadening students' knowledge of machinery and basic manual skills were the fundamentals of the industrial arts department. Metals, woodworking and drafting offered a variety of opportunities to those interested in vocational experience.

Aided by the presence of several new machines, metals and woodworking classes constructed a wide display of projects. Vocational machine shop utilized a new surface grinder and drill press while woods students acquainted themselves with a newly acquired electric welder and a wood shaper and surfacer.

The drafting department started a three-hour vocational class for students who desire drafting as a career. All classes were taught the basic fundamentals of drawing, reading and analyzing various drafting structures. Each pupil was required to finish 50 projects by the end of the year.



Utilizing the new wood shaping machine, Eldon Dilks maneuvers the crank to its proper position.

Math classes demand clear, logical thinking

As always, the math department at Truman tried to establish a solid foundation in the art of working with numbers.

In the less advanced courses, terminal math, algebra and geometry, students strived for a more basic understanding which would help them in a vocation and the demands of everyday life.

Trigonometry and math analysis were classes for the academically minded students and college preparatory courses.

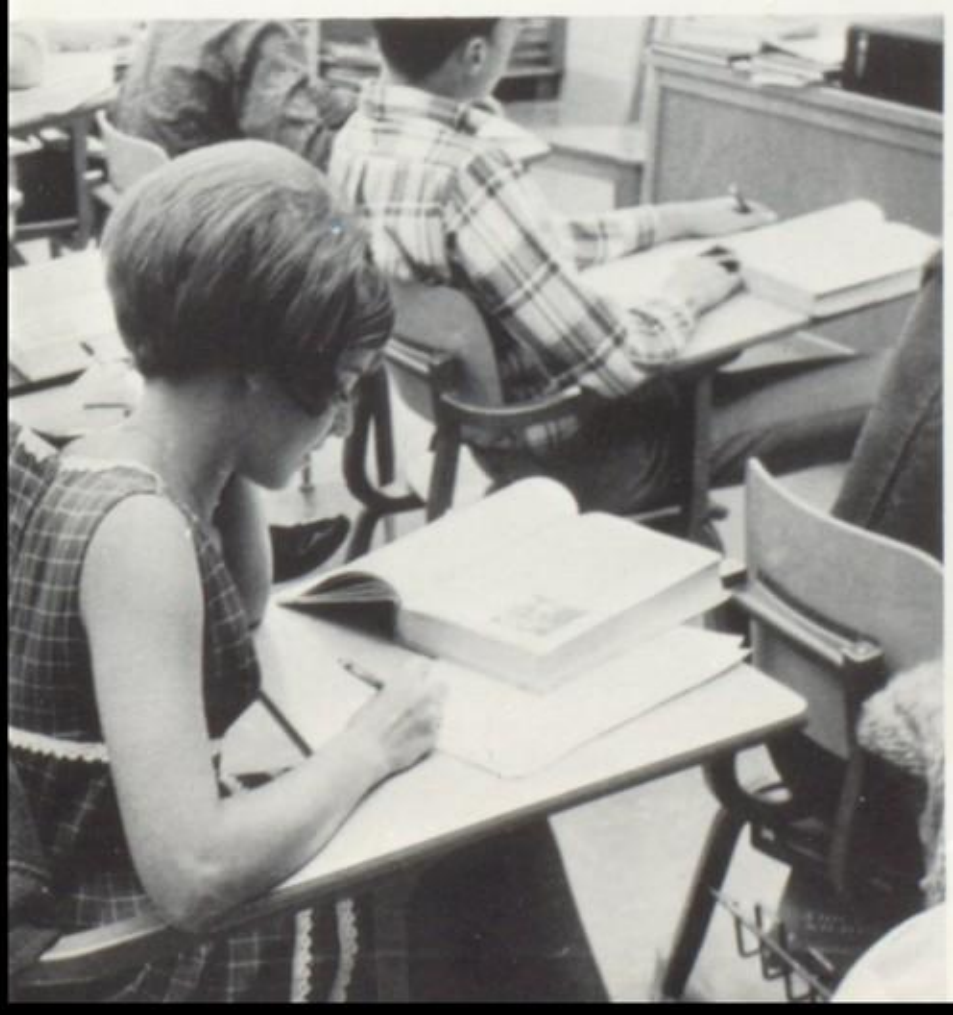
locations, people, events define social sciences

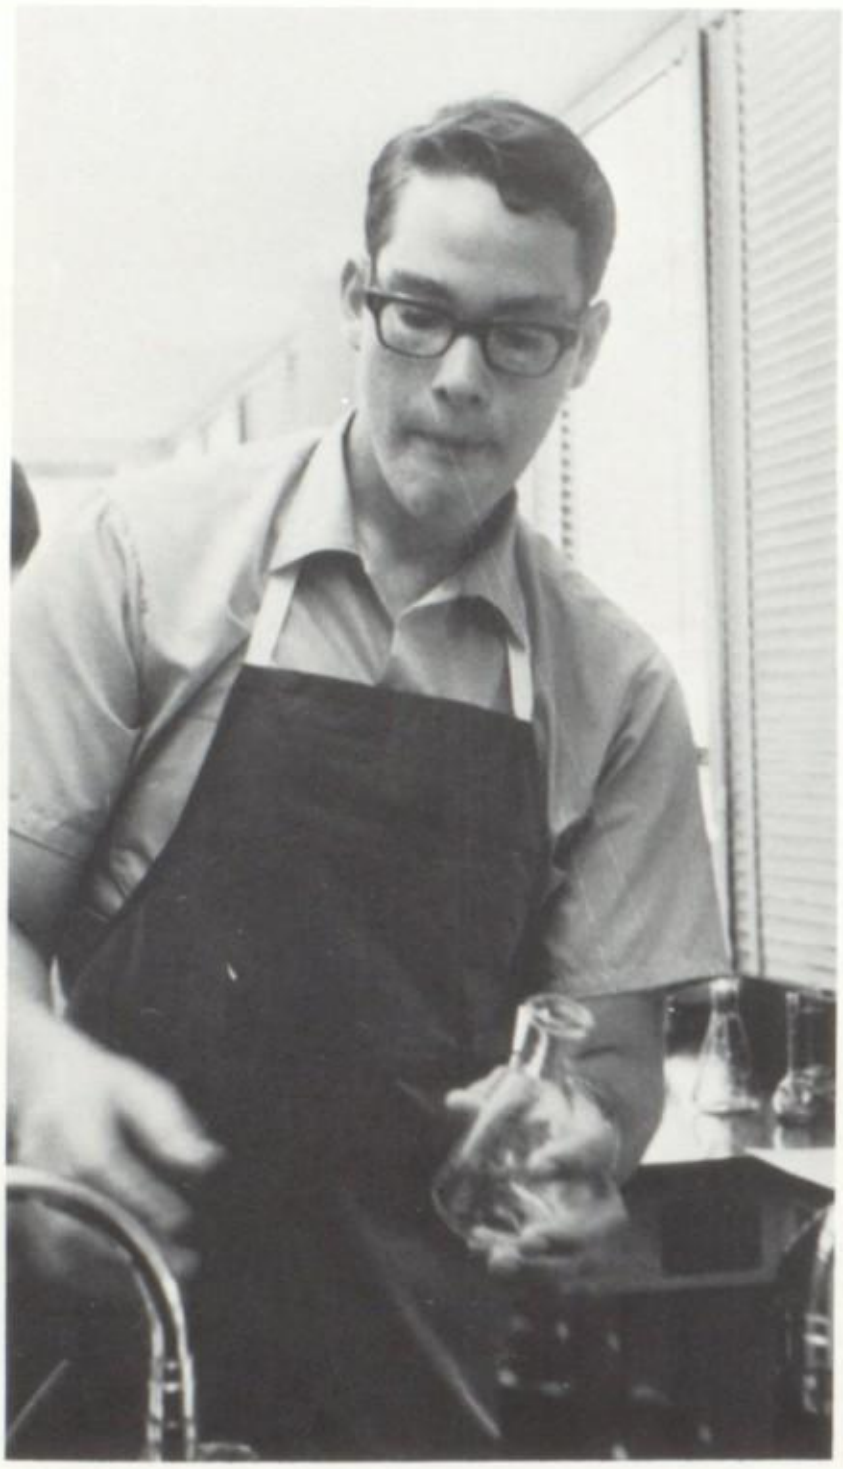


Many changes were made this year in the Truman social science department. The major change involved the appointment of Mr. John Henderson as supervisor of social sciences for the Independence secondary schools. Mr. Henderson taught contemporary issues and American history at Truman this year.

Other changes included the hiring of three new teachers; Mrs. Jeanne Nauser, psychology; Mrs. Susan Ploger, American history; and Miss Mary Klingner, world history.

In the midst of these changes the format of the courses remained the same, and no courses were added or dropped.

Scientific intricacies challenge THS students



Using a volumetric flask, Larry Mann measures the desired amount of water for a chemistry experiment.

Emphasizing experiments and challenging students in scientific fields were the aims of Truman's science department.

General science was the less advanced field where students began to learn about the basics of physics and chemistry.

Biology students studied the various types of life and their requirements. Dissecting animals also added to the interest of this class.

Lab work and individual study were major parts of chemistry. Experiments and chemistry study helped students to better understand the basics of this class.

Experiments in the various fields of electricity and atomic energy were among the subjects studied in physics.

Student Council endeavors to serve

Striving to serve the students, the Truman Student Council continued its yearly sizable contribution to school and community.

Using funds collected through Truman's most successful dances ever, concession receipts, and Christmas and Valentine card exchange service, Stuco provided student ID cards, Chatter-Matters and a major part of the AFS fund.

Student council also sponsored a hootenanny, and all regularly scheduled assemblies and elections, besides making spirit posters for all games. To aid the community, Truman students, through the Council, adopted 13 needy families at Christmas.

President Mike Whitehead journeyed to Camp Sheely, Colorado, to participate in a national student council convention. Officers also attended the state conference last summer in Columbia.

Filling Cristmas stockings for veterans accounted for the major project of Truman's Active Red Cross chapter. Other projects consisted of visiting nursing homes, helping needy families, and the United Fund Drive.

Home rooms chose representatives for Red Cross at the beginning of the year. Monthly meetings were open to anyone interested in attending and helping the organization.

Chess Club moves forward with play

Pawns, rooks, kings, queens, knights and bishops — these were familiar objects to the Truman Chess Club members. While some members learned the fundamentals of the game, the others employed their chess knowledge in actual games.

An elimination tournament in which the members competed against one another highlighted the year of this club.

Interact Club response with service

Interact Club continued in its tradition of school and community service. Sponsored by the Independence Rotary Club, this select group of junior and senior boys undertook projects and responsibilities in an effort to build individual character, integrity and community pride.

During the year, members contributed time, money and abilities to benefit club activities. During the Christmas season, canned hams were distributed to needy families. In addition to a contribution to the AFS fund-raising drive, Interact financed telephone calls home for the Truman exchange students (Peter Brook of New Zealand and Bruno Gastal of France, both honorary members of the club). Continuation of a tree-growing project along with helping at the polls on election days marked service to the community.

Innovations this year included hostesses at the formal evening meetings and a winning entry in the annual Kiddie Kar Kontest.

Officers for the 1967-68 year were Dave Bennett, president; John Dennis, vice-president; Bill Worth, secretary; Don Cain, treasurer; and Glenn Fickel, parliamentarian. Executive board members were Bradd Crowley, Bob Cole, and Randy Cole. Sponsoring Interact was Mr. Jerry Moore, vice-principal.

Future Teachers aid faculty, students

Attending the district teacher's meeting in Warrensburg, heading a speed-reading program, giving recognition to teachers, during Honor Teachers Week, and spending a day working with a teacher and class in the Independence School System are just a few of the many projects that Truman's Future Teachers participated in during the 1967 — 1968 school year.

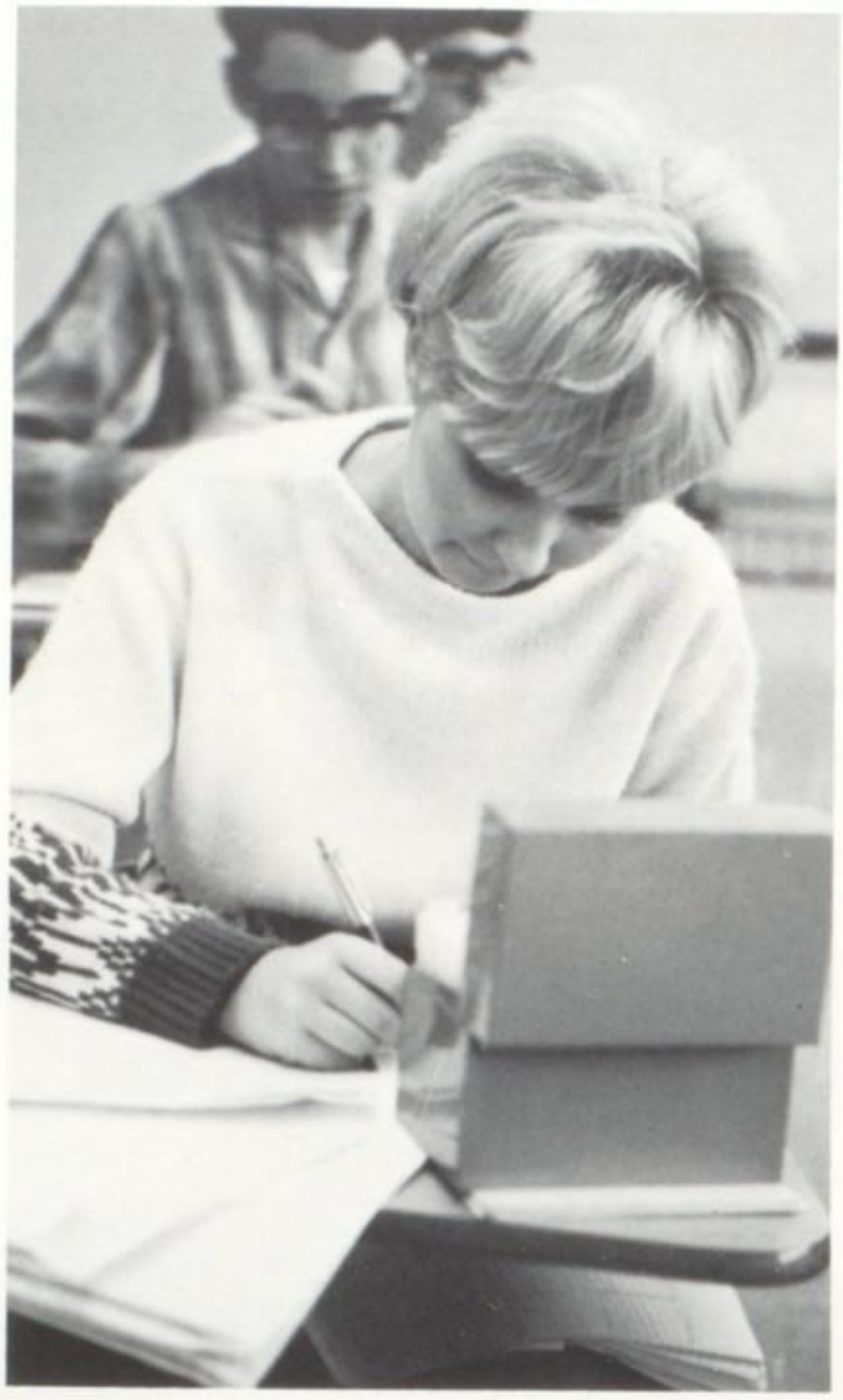
The Service Corps was another project which enabled FTA members to gain hours through helping teachers by running errands and doing various other jobs during their study hall hours.

Five members attended the leadership conference held in Columbia. Jan Holliger was elected treasurer of the Missouri State Future Teachers at this workshop.

Truman's F.T.A. hosted a workshop for area schools with the theme of the workshop, "Steps to Teaching."

Officers of Future Teachers during the 67-68 school year were Paula Ries, president; Lani Berry, vice president; Marsha Van Kirk, secretary; Lon Mason, treasurer; Sandi Novak, parlimentarian; and Jewel Holmes, reporter.

As part of her responsibility for FTA, Sherry Rice puts together a test.



Achievement of Forensic League awards depends on accumulated points. Pam Gordon and Carol Sperry (top right) record novice debaters' points from the Shawnee Mission tournament. These are sent to national headquarters for permanent record.

Forensic contests Provide competition

Designed to enhance the debate program, the National Forensic League provided the ground rules for speech and debate contests which enabled students to collect points for four honored degrees.

Degrees of Merit, Honor, Excellence and Distinction were awarded respectively for an accumulation of a certain amount of points. Participants in the contests attained points in a variety of categories, such as drama, radio speaking and extemporaneous speaking.

Officers of the Truman chapter worked closely with Mr. Larry Whisler in promoting their interest in speech.

Thespians concentrate on expression

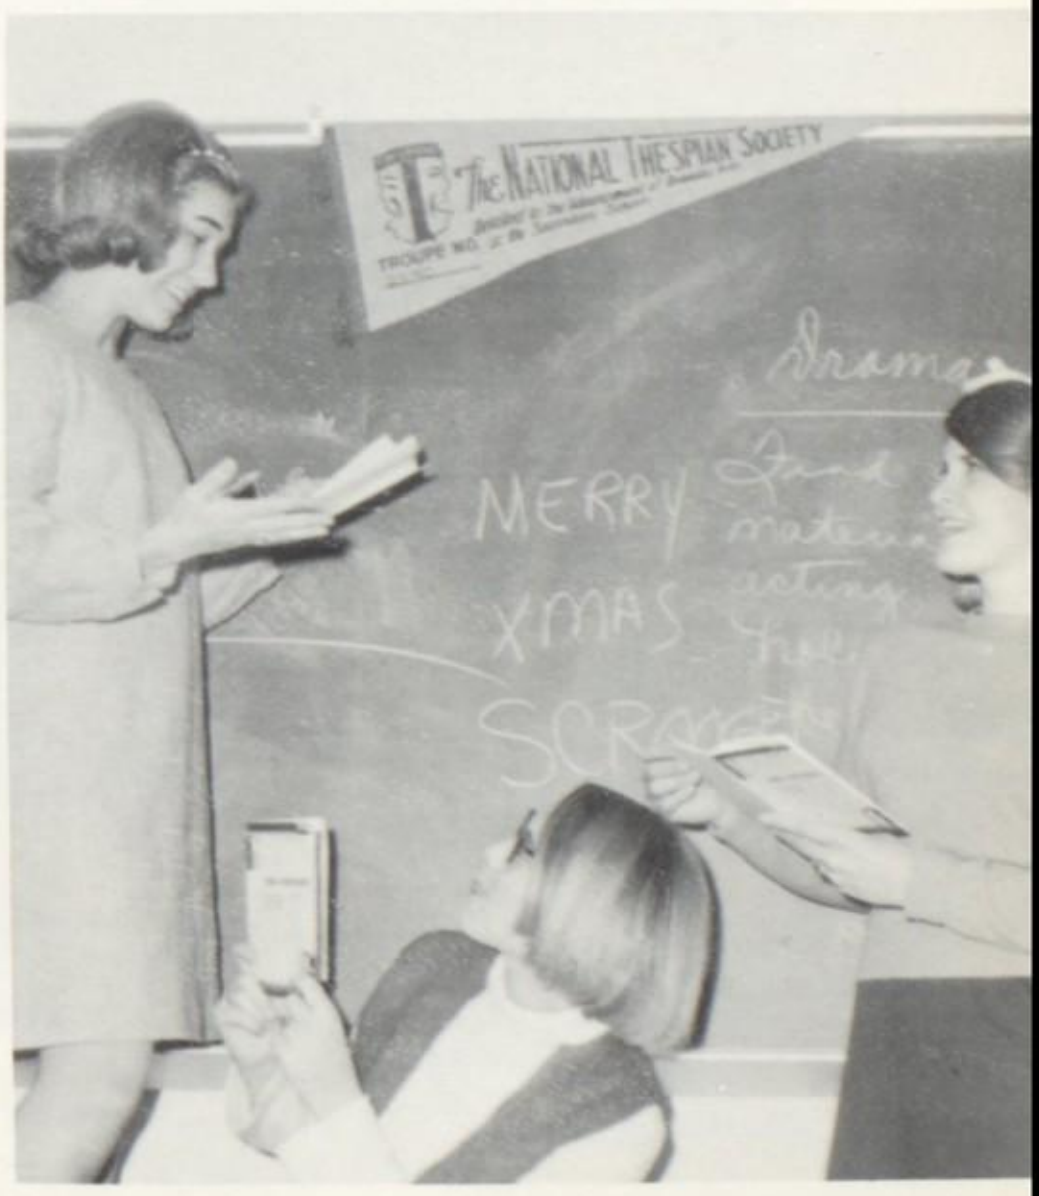
Producing all dramatic presentations for the school year 1967-68 occupied members of Thespians, sponsored by Mrs. Juda Schell.

The One-Acts, an annual production, was the first project for the organization. Preparation for this and all plays required the appointment of costumes, lighting crews, complete backstage crews, help with make-up and publicity management.

"Gray Bread" was Thespians' contribution to the One-Acts. A member of this cast, Carol Warren, was named "Best Actress" for her part in the play.

The all-school play held every spring was also backed by the Truman chapter. Students participated in the production of "Harvey" by Mary Chase.



Three officers of Thespians, Pam Miller, vice-president; Jacki Thompson, treasurer and Sheila Schauer, secretary, read parts to "Jacob Comes Home." President Carol Warren (not pictured) was named Best Actress for her part in "Gray Bread."

National Honor Society offers tutoring aid

By offering a tutoring service for interested students who might have missed out on fundamentals, the National Honor Society attempted to aid the student body. Private sessions as well as group classes were conducted in various subjects.

NHS members were chosen through a program earmarked by four characteristics: leadership, scholarship, character and service.

Originally, only the top five per cent of the senior class were involved. Then, in the spring, the second five per cent along with the top five per cent of the junior class were inducted at a formal initiation.

Officers were Don Cain, president; Andy Bryant, vice-president; Nola Matthews, secretary; and Glenn Fickel, treasurer. Sponsor was Mr. Bill Moyer.

Art Club captures Kiddie Kar prize

Pennants, sweatshirts and field trips monopolized the time of National Art Honor Society members.

Pennants advertizing the Truman Patriots in blue, red and white were printed by members and sold during football season. Senior sweatshirts bearing the year of graduation were sold and distributed in January. Art exhibits at the Nelson Art Gallery and the Country Club Plaza offered NAHS members a chance to see work of professional artists.

"Even Cleopatra Couldn't Love a Bear" captured first place in Truman's annaual Kiddie Kar Kontest for NAHS.

The semi-formal NAHS initiation during the first week of May, provided both a contest and initiation combined. As required, members and prospective members submitted ten projects for display and judging.

Officers of National Art Honor Society this year were Debbie Harmon, president; Marta Duckworth, vice president; Carolyn Hoss, recording secretary; Ann Herbst, corresponding secretary; Gary Jacobs, treasurer; Patti Cain, reporter-historian-parliamentarian. Sponsors were Miss Rosalee Cox and Mr. Louis Braley.

Pep Club sponsors Tupperware sale, bake sale and annual Spring Banquet

Yell Leaders for the 1967-68 school year are: Kathy Stafford, Ann Herbst, Marta Duckworth, Marsha VanKirk, Kathy Cline, and Debbie Baker.

Getting an early start in money-raising projects, Pep Club held a rummage and bake sale during the summer. Later on, they sponsored a Tupperware sale. The money from these sales paid for the rabbit feet given to the varsity squads and helped pay for the busses to away games.

Another project of Pep Club was the purchasing of large pennants of the Surburban Eight Conference schools to be displayed in the gym.

Altering the usual format of four yell leaders, the officers elected six with two alternates. This was necessary due to the increased number of Pep Club members.

The annual Pep Club Banquet was held in April and all old members were invited along with the newly elected members. A picnic in May brought an end to all activities and projects of the 1967-68 school year.

Officers were Mary Hininger, president; Debbie Calocich, vice president; Paula Ries, secretary; Debbie Nagel, treasurer; Suzi Neff, reporter; and Paulette Peterson, parliamentarian.

club memberships

Students obtained membership into PATS Club and Lettermen's Club based on their athletic competency.

PATS Club members, chosen for their ability to play volleyball, were first judged by the old members and then by coaches and physical education teachers. The girls practiced at regular weekly meetings in preparation for the Sports Day they sponsored in February.

Boys in Lettermen's Club needed to letter in any sport at Truman. This club sponsored the annual Lettermen vs. Faculty Game which was followed by a game between the Booster Club and WHB dis jockeys.

Officers of PATS this year were Kathy Stafford, president; Kathy Horne, vice president; Sandy Reed, secretary-treasurer; Debbie Brown, social chairman.

Lettermen Club officers this year were Charlie Cockrelle, president; Dave Bennett, vice president; Phil Basler, secretary; Gary Allen, treasurer; Jim Handley, sargeant-at-arms.

Meeting Activities feature field trips

Field trips constituted the major activities of Truman's 1967-68 Science Club and Junior Engineering Technological Society.

Science Club visited James Weldon Laboritories, the Engewood Hobby Shop, and Missouri Water Company

The IBM Computer Center in Kansas City was the object of a Jets Club field trip, plus trips to other area manufacturers dealing in the field of engineering throughout the year.

Officers this year for Science Club were Andy Bryant, president; John Jeffries, vice-president; Paula Gates, secretary; Hague Howey, treasurer; and Ralph Lesh, historian Mr. Jerry Dinsmore and Miss Nora Witthar were sponsors.

First Club dance features "Classmen"

The first club-sponsored dance turned in to a giant success for the French Club.

Featuring the Classmen, a national recording group, the dance attracted over a thousand people. Highlights were a multitude of strobe lights, Campbell soup cans for candle holders, fluorescent strawberry alarm clock and yellow submarines. A major portion of the funds went to the Americans Abroad program.

Other activities during the year included a hay ride, Christmas caroling and a banquet.

French Club officers for 1967-68 were Lani Berry, president; Lon Mason, vice president; Wendy Hodges, and Kathy Burlingame, secretaries; Nancy Meserve, treasurer; Dave Ralston and Dave Haggard, activities chairmen; Don Mosier, parlimentarian.

Mrs. Goddjn was French Club sponsor for the '67'68 year.

Studies continue after Spanish class

Participating in a field trip to Guadelupe Center highlighted Spanish Club's activities during the 1967-68 school year. Other activities consisted of a hayride in the fall and a Christmas party; also the club, along with Mrs Mary Clements, sponsor, attended various Mexican restaurants.

Projects which helped finance these trips were dues, garage sales and concessions at the football and basketball games.

The People-to People Program adopted by the club helped send clothes and other household necessities to needy overseas families.

The meetings were held the first Thursday of every month and besides the regular business meeting the programs consisted of speakers and slides on Mexico.

Officers were Linda Baker, president; Sherry Norman, vice president; Linda Hedeen, secretary; Debbie Kesner, treasurer; and Marce Duckworth, reporter.

COE Club fills activities deficit

As a part of her daily activities, Judy Hamilton, COE student, works at the Noland Road Bank.

Absent from the last two hours of every school day, Truman's Cooperative Occupational Educational students found it nearly impossible to participate in extra-curricular activities; COE Club was designed to fill this deficit.

This year the club provided Christmas for a Red Cross needy family and repaired toys which went to children at Mercy Hospital. In February, the members of the club attended a contest in Warrensburg, and in March, they attended the state contest in Columbia. An employer-employee banquet in April contributed to the active year.

Truman One-Acts finish with flourish

Being made up as an old lady, Carol Warren prepares for her role. She was named "Best Actress."

"Golly, I keep forgetting that line!"
"Break a leg."
"Look at all those people!"
"Oh, my make-up is smeared!"
"Good luck!"
"Let's go over this scene one last time!"
"Get some more cold cream!"
"Thank goodness, this will be over tomorrow!"
"Five minutes!"
"Gee, I'm scared!" . . .

Nervousness and excitement prevailed as the dramatics students prepared for the presentation of the Truman One-Acts. Rehearsal went on for weeks until the final night when odors of grease paint, unique costumes and last-minute assurances created the seemingly confused scene. But as the last curtain lowered, triumphant and proud smiles plastered relieved faces.

"You were terrific!"
"That wasn't so bad after all!"
"I was so nervous! . . . "

Grimacing to obtain the right effect, Donna Mueller applies the final touch.

'Babes in Toyland' Features Fables

On December 16, 1967, Sharon Brewer, senior, was crowned the 1968 Miss Heritage. Sharon reigned over 'Babes in Toyland', the theme for the fourth annual Christmas dance, with twelve foot toys surrounding the gym.

Sharon and her attendants were escorted by their fathers to the throne and then danced the first dance with their escorts. Each girl was presented with a long-stemmed rose as she approached the throne decorated with large stuffed lions and a back-drop of red and green.

Don Cain, editor of the Heritage, announced the queen and her attendants: seniors Annette Shirky and Sherry Hawkins, junior Vicki Titus and sophomore Michelle Harris.

Couples entered the dance through a guard house with a twelve foot toy soldier on each side. A sixteen foot Christmas tree surrounded by presents and decorated with lights highlighted the center of the floor.

The Fables provided music for the traditional dance sponsored by the publications department.

Senior attendants, Annette Shirky and Sherry Hawkins congratulate Sharon on her recent crowning.

Bill, Dotty snare Patriot spirit symbols

Patriotism abounding, Dotty Craig and Bill Worth were elected as symbols of spirit.

Trumanites swarmed to the polls in support of Dotty Craig during the annual Independence Queen of Flowers Contest. Competing against girls from other area schools, Dotty swept to the fourth crown for Truman in as many years as a tide of Patriots surged to vote.

Bill Worth emerged victorious over Don Mosier and Gary Young in the balloting for 1968 Mr. School Spirit. Over the years, Bill was a loyal and boisterous supporter of all sports and club activities. After his nomination by the Pep Club, fellow students chose him as a representative of Patriot idealism.

Through Dotty Craig and Bill Worth, Truman spirit, determination and loyalty were exemplified.

Another Truman first exemplified the performance of the Truman football squad. This year, the Patriots sported their best season ever by compiling a 5-5 record and finishing in a tie for second in the conference.

The first two games proved disappointing as the Truman gridsters were handed crushing defeats by the Jefferson City Jays and the Center Yellowjackets.

But the tide turned as Truman stunned the Raytown Bluejays for the first time in Patriot history. Traveling to De La Salle, the fighting Pats delt the Titans a striking upset which evened the Truman record at 2 wins and 2 loses. Ruskin, however, ended the Patriot winning streak by clinching a tight heartbreaker played on Truman's home field. Truman then won its first Homecoming game by rattling the Northmen of Oak Park for another thrilling upset. Then the Patriots rambled past North Kansas City by an overwhelming margin.

Springfield Central added another loss to the Patriot record. Next, through mud and water ankle-deep, Raytown South edged out a slim victory over Truman. But the Pats retaliated by blasting the William Chrisman Bears, victory number five in Truman's first victorious season.

Truman's Mick Rupe, Tom Wright, John Tucker and Phil Basler were chosen for the Independence Examiner's All-Area Team. Also representing the Patriots were Larry Brewer, second team; Alan Kelly and Dennis Smith, honorable mention.

Picked to the Suburban Eight All-Conference Team were Tucker, John Wilkinson and Basler. Honorable mention went to Rupe, Smith, Gordon Stanfield, Steve Williams and Charles Cockerell. Phil Basler was selected by the Independence Examiner as Back of the Year. Tri-captains for the Patriot football squad were Cockerell, Wilkinson and Basler. Under the leadership of Coaches Laural Hobick, Ken Johns and Robert Felling, Truman marched to their most successful season.

Patriot harriers capture Suburban crown

Preparing for the upcoming meet, Marty Talcot sheds his warmups.

Successive wins marked the best cross country team Truman had seen in four years of competition. After losing their second meet of the season, the Patriots powered back to capture eight straight victories and the Suburban conference crown.

Sparked by Don Allinder, a fleet-footed senior, Truman's harriers led the Suburban Eight with an impressive showing of sportsmanship and determination. Following constant improvement, Don decisively shattered the old school record of 10:54, and set a new two mile time at 10:21.4. Aside from Allinder, all Truman teammates performed with outstanding results.

Truman placed fourth at the Ruskin Invitational and two weeks later scored high to take first place in the conference meet. The Patriots again displayed their power by claiming the runner-up position in District competition and 5th place in the final State meeting.

Rampaging over foes, Pats sack titles

Battling back from a one-loss deficit, the Truman Patriots bounced into their second consecutive Suburban Eight conference co-championship.

The season cracked open with the Pats racking up three quick victories over St. Pius X, DeLaSalle and Westport. Truman then moved past Park Hill in the first round of the North Kansas City Tournament. The Pats entered into the championship game by upsetting Rockhurst 69-59. But Raytown South handed Truman its first defeat of the year, 63-52, in the finals.

Recovering from the loss, the Patriots ripped Bishop Miege for another victory. Truman then started conference play by blasting Ruskin and Raytown.

The Lee's Summit tournament proved to a repetition of the NKC bout. The Pats drove by Grandview and Lee's Summit only to fall to Rockhurst by two points in the championship bracket.

Traveling to North Kansas City, the Patriots dealt the Hornets a jolting defeat. The following night also proved victorious for the Pats as they whipped cross-town William Chrisman 57-53.

Disaster struck, however, when the Cardinals of Raytown South rapped Truman for the second time of the season. But regrouping their forces, the Patriots rampaged past Oak Park and Center to finish the first round of conference action.

The Patriot machine powered forward with four more decisive wins over Ruskin, Raytown, NKC and William Chrisman. With these victories, Truman carried an 18-3 mark against the Kansas City Star's number one ranked team, Raytown South. The game ended in an upset as Truman humbled the Cards 53-50.

The Patriots needed to win their final two conference games to nab a share of the title. Oak Park and Center fell the following week, leaving the Pats with their second co-championship.

Hosting the regional, top-seeded Truman blasted Van Horn and William Chrisman to earn the championship. The Patriots closed out a 23-4 season with a loss to Southeast in the first round of the state tournament.

Individual honors included the naming of Phil Basler and Gaylord Browne to the All-Area team. Team captain Dave Bennett and top rebounder Dave Nichols were given honorable mention.

Pink, white accent Debbie's coronation

Trees with pink blossoms, and a backdrop of spring flowers accented the theme of the 1967-68 basketball homecoming, "Spring Splendor." While the band played "Laura," Sandi Cookston, last year's queen, crowned Debbie Harmon the 67-68 queen.

During halftime of the Truman-Raytown South game, Debbie and her two senior attendants, Mary Hininger and Kay Lotspiech, along with Judy Hammett and Dale Ann Doubledee, their junior and sophomore attendants, were escorted by their fathers to the court.

After the crowning, Debbie was presented with a dozen carnations and chrysanthemums, then escorted to her throne where she and her attendants reigned over the victorious second half of the game.

Patriot wrestlers grasp dual thirds

Finishing the season with third place in both the Center Invitational and District tournaments highlighted Truman's wrestling season.

Overall, the Patriots posted a 4-8 record with decisive victories coming against Ruskin, East, Liberty and Hogan.

Truman hosted the Suburban Eight conference tournament, January 25-27. Charles Cockerell and Randy Coil placed third and fourth in their respective weight divisions.

Junior varsity grapplers developed a winning margin with a result of 7 wins to 5 defeats. Sophomores finalized with a loss to Oak Park and a tie with North Kansas City.

The Pats were coached this year for the first time by Dr. Don Coffman, assisted by Mr. Ken Johns.

Novel sensations Stimulate sophs

Halls seemed like a maze to sophomores as they struggled to acquaint themselves with the Truman High School building this year.

Numerous and varied activities gobbled them up — a sophomore here, a sophomore there.

Legally they chewed gum in class and sat beside their best friends in assemblies.

Responsibility slapped them in the face as the teachers and other Trumanites relied on their assistance.

The patriot fight became their fight, and the lunchroom competition became their competition.

However, they eventually grew accustomed to the groove of things . . .

In memoriam

Charles Gordon Bishop
May 31, 1952 - October 27, 1967

Charles Gordon Bishop, Truman sophomore, was fatally injured in an automobile accident on October 27,1967.

Gordon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel E. Bishop, was killed near Sedalia, Missouri, as he was on his way to the Truman-Springfield Central football game. He was a member of the sophomore football team and was an Eagle Scout.

527 juniors enroll at THS this year

If Robert Frost failed to instill a lasting impression, then perhaps Scarlet Letter succeeded in supplying juniors with essential knowledge.

If others trampled juniors in the lunchroom and halls, then perhaps they gained their superiority by yelling loudest in pep assemblies.

If senior activities obviously excluded them, then perhaps the junior prom sufficed this deficit.

If juniors lacked sufficient identification, then perhaps the purchase of class rings furnished the desired identity.

And if junior authority displeased many students, then perhaps the anticipation of senior life seemed more appealing.

'Spirit Week' inspires Trumanites

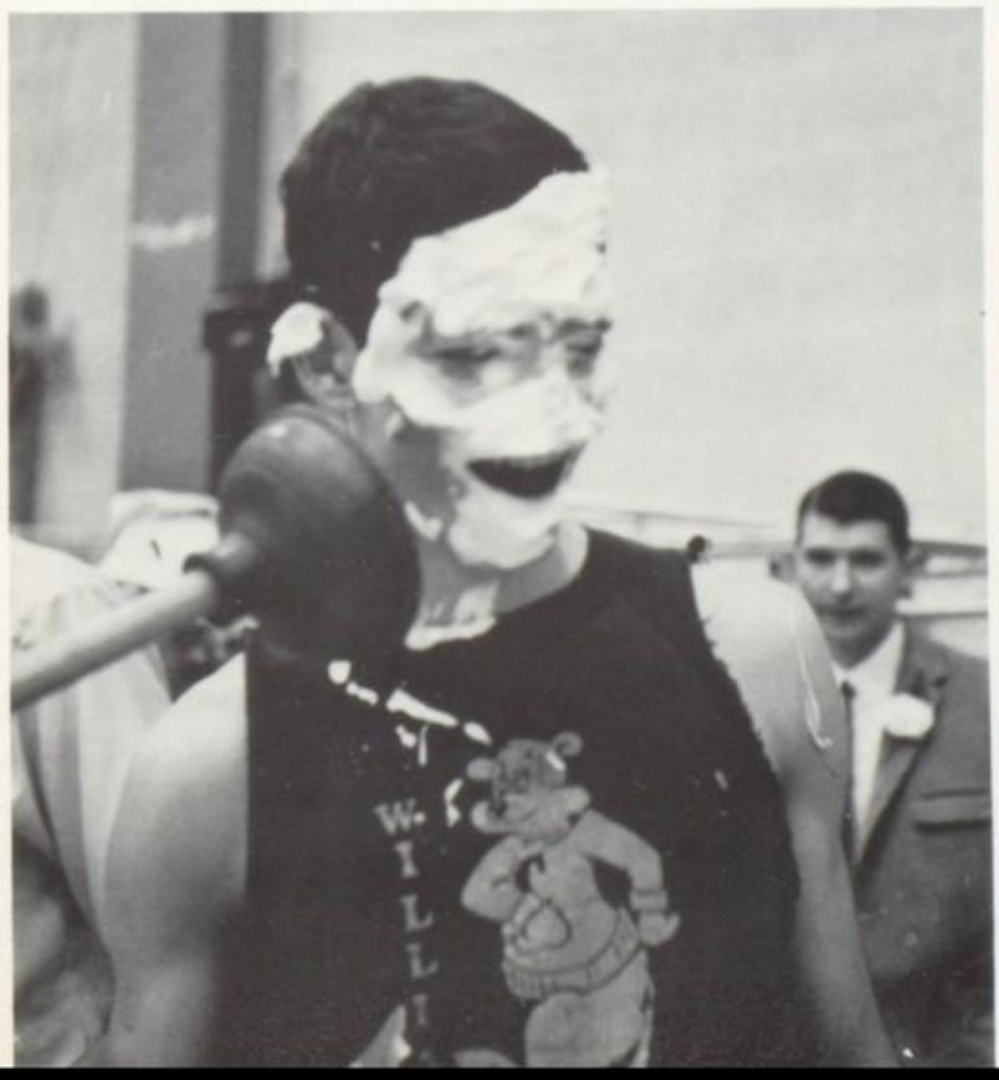
Going all out, Kay Constance decks out on Halloween Day.

Representing NHS, Gary Young shows what creaming the Bears is all about.



Exemplifying Truman spirit, cheerleader Ditty King dresses for Kiddie Day.

Pete, Bruno spend 67-68 school year as exchange students at Truman High

Explaining their duties during AFS week, Mrs. Cockefair talks to Peter Brook and Bruno Gastal.

For the second consecutive year, Truman High School's finances enabled it to host two foreign exchange students.

Hailing from Valence, France, Bruno Gastal spent the 1967-68 school year at the home of junior, David Haggard. Besides participating in varied AFS Club programs, Bruno was active in French Club. Sports were a favorite of Bruno's. Not only did he support football and basketball, but participated on the track team. When asked what he liked most about Truman he replied, "Basketball games; because where I come from, the games have no spectators, pep squad, or cheerleaders."

Living with Charlie and Richard Cockerell this year was Peter Brook from Wellington, New Zealand. Pete enjoyed all sports and went out for the football team. Even though he was unable to play the entire season he supported all games. Pete also participated in French Club, AFS Club, Interact and Red Cross. "School Spirit" was the answer when he was asked what he liked best about Truman.

Arriving for another school day, Bruno and his American brother David Haggard get out of their car.

After the 2:15 bell, Richard and Charles Cockerell, on their way to wrestling practice, accompany their AFS brother, Pete, to play practice.

Pete Brook, New Zealand

Officers, class remember events of year

Debbie Nagel, secretary.

Unforgetable memories — both good and bad — smothered the '68 seniors.

Frustrating memories arose from an unread Exodus, a basketball defeat, a last-minute scribble in a writer's notebook, the lack of money for lunch when pizza was served, and perhaps even five minutes of cramming for a 55-minute test.

Amusing memories developed from a joke played on an unsuspecting teacher, a humorous flop in the talent assembly, the sight of an underclassman tripping on the stairs, or the remembrance of a hairpiece yanked off a girl's head.

Satisfying memories sprang from a glorious football victory, a hard-earned trophy, a delicious cinnamon roll, the crowning of a queen, and even the 2:15 bell which dismissed school for the day.

However, sentiment crowded the memories of most seniors. The mere red, white and blue colors created a vivid memory. Senior rings, the yearbook and newspapers, or a pressed corsage claimed some cherished memories.

Directory and Index

The 1968 Heritage staff would like to express its appreciation and acknowledgement to some people who made this publication possible. Thanks go to the Board of Education and the Central Office administration whose consideration helped us immensely. Our printing was done by American Yearbook Company whose representative was Mr. John Leuthold. We thank the Truman faculty and student body for their full-time cooperation. Also, we thank Rolland Studios who was responsible for much of our photography. Finally, a sincere thank you goes to the Truman office staff, and especially our principals, Mr. LeRoy Brown and Mr. Jerry Moore. Without the aid of all these people, the 1968 Heritage would never have left Room 108.

Hail! Truman High School,
To you we're loyal and true.
We are the Patriots,
The red, white and blue.

Firm and un-daunt-ed
Always we stand
Hail to the school we love,
Best in the land.
